ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Sue Uglow is an associate of Informa Telecoms & Media. She has been researching and analysing telecoms markets for over 15 years. A principal analyst with Ovum until 2002, Sue led the global research into industry structure and competition. Working mainly with large incumbent and new entrant operators in Europe, the US and Asia, she has delivered reports and workshops on a wide variety of broadband- and mobile-related topics, including: market and competitor analysis; strategic planning; international marketing and positioning; strategic partnerships and ecosystems. She has written several reports on international broadband networks, telecoms wholesale, MVNOs, mobile content business models and operator business structures.

Sue also combines freelance telecommunications research and analysis with international training for telecoms professionals in marketing and strategy, as well as delivering lectures at UK universities on telecoms strategy and innovation.

The author would like to acknowledge the contribution of the people who gave their valuable time and insights during the research for this report. In addition to the numerous contacts who made themselves available for off-record comments, thanks go to Mike Beech (Acision), Mathias Liebe (Orga Systems), Harit Nagpal (Vodafone Essar), Rafat Nawawi (Zain), Dick Omondi (Vodacom), Stefano Songini (Orascom Telecom Holding) and Josh Tulgan (MTS) as well as to Angela Stainthorpe, Jayshree Badhan and Thomas Wehmeier at Informa. Special thanks to Gareth Sims for the forecasts and to Olivia Gibney for the editorial assistance.
